RHODODENDRONS

We are making every effort in the growing of our Rhododendrons to produce quality stock for both Landscape Planting and Forcing. Each plant is given individual attention as to pruning, etc., in our endeavor to produce specimen plants even in the smaller grades.

We are offering Grafted Hardy Hybrids in the following named varieties for Forcing, Landscape planting and Lining Out.

LANDSCAPE PLANTING

The sizes including the 3 yr. transplanted 12-15" up we recommended for Landscape Planting. These plants are all well shaped, have splendid foliage, and are well budded.

FORCING

The sizes including the 3 yr. transplanted 12-15" up are all suitable for Forcing. In our selection of plants, when they are used for this purpose, we pick only the plants that are well shaped and evenly and heavily budded.

LINING OUT

The 2 yr. transplanted 10-12" grafts have been growing for two years in the fields in beds. This is very good planting material for growing on, or could be used for immediate plantings. For those who have the facilities for growing this material on, I believe it is the most satisfactory size to buy as the price of these is quite reasonable and the plants from this size on increase in size and value quite rapidly.

KAEMPFERI SEEDLINGS

Mixed colors salmon to rich red. Aza. Kaempferi Seedlings are very useful in Landscape Plantings. In many instances they are used with evergreens which makes a very good background for these varieties as they are more or less tall and open growing and produce a variety of colors. They are also good if used in mass plantings but owing to the fact that the blooms fade very quickly when exposed to the sunlight we recommend that they be planted in shaded areas. The plants in a mixed lot of Kaempferi Seedlings do not all bloom at one time but will last over a long period, some coming in flower as the others are fading.
